 Did you know that 1 in 4 eligible voters in our nation is not registered to vote? That's a staggering number! But here's the good news: healthcare providers are uniquely empowered to close that gap and create healthier communities and a healthier democracy.

 Healthcare is all about caring for people, and that extends beyond medical treatment. It means advocating for the well-being of our communities at every level. Registering to vote and encouraging others to do the same is one powerful way we can make a difference.

 When healthcare providers take the initiative to promote voter registration, we're not just improving healthcare policies; we're strengthening the very foundation of our democracy. Let's use our influence to ensure that everyone's voice is heard.

 Together, we can bridge the gap in voter registration and build a more vibrant, participatory democracy. It starts with us. Register, encourage others to register, and let's create a healthier future for all.
